PREVIOUS PRESIDENTIAL ELEC-TIONS.

The Sacramento Union, conceding that Greeley has carried seven States, with 63 electoral votes, leaving Grant the remainder of the States, casting 303 votes, shows that Grant's majority is not so great, proportionately, as other Presidents have received. It continues:

In 1789 Washington was elected without an opposing vote; and so again in 1793, receiving 69 votes in 1789 and 132 in 1793. Ten States only voted at the first, and fifteen at the second election. John Adams had but one majority in the election of 1797. At the fourth election, 1801,) Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr were tied, each having 73 electors; and the House of Representatives decided the contest by electing Jefferson. The bal-loting began in the House (by States, each State having one vote) on February 11th, 1801. The House had voted to at-tend to no other business and not to adjourn until this war was settled. Seats were provided upon the floor for the President and the Senators, the galleries were cleared, and the doors were closed. On the first ballot, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia and Keutucky, voted for Jefferson. New Hampshire, Massa-chusetts, Rhole Island, Connecticut, Delaware and South Carolina, (6,) voted for Burr. Vermont and Maryland were divided, and voted blank. The balloting continued for seven days, and 104 members were present. On the thirty-sixth ballot, taken on the afternoon of the seventh day, the votes of Delaware and South Carolina were given blank, and the votes of Vermont and Marylan I were the votes of vermont and Marylan I were given for Jefferson. This gave Jeff rson ten States, and left four for Burr, with two voting blank. Jefferson having a majority of the States, was declared con-stitutionally elected Presid at for four years from the 4th of March next suc-ceding; and Burr was declared constitu-tionally elected View President tionally elected Vice President. In 1805 Jefferson was re-elected by 162 to 14 electors for Charles C. Pinky. This was a larger m jority in pro-ction to the numb r of electors than Grant's. James Madison in 1809 re-ceived 122 out of a college of 175 electors. In 1813 be had 128 out of a col-lege of 217, DeWitt Cinton receiving 89. At the eighth Presidential election James Monroe had all the States but three, and Monroe had all the States but three, and 183 out of 217 electors. This was also a little better than the vote just cast for Grant. In 1821 Monroe was re-elected by 227 to 1, the one vote being thrown by an elector from New Hampshire. In 1824 the election again went into the House of Representatives, which, by the influence of Henry Clay elected John Q. Adams. Thirteen States voted for Adams, as follows: Maine New Hampshire. ams, as follows: Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecti-cut, Vermont, New York, Maryland, Onio, Kentucky, Illinois, Missouri and Louisiana. Jackson got seven States: New Jersey, Pannsylvania, South Caroli-New Jersey, Pannsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi and Indiana. Wm. H. Crawford got four States: Delaware, Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia. In 1829 Andrew Satkson was elected President by 178 t+83 for John Q. Adams. He was reelected in 1833 by 219 votes against 67, of which Clay had 49, Floyd 11, and William Wirt 7. This was not quite as good as Graut's second election. In 1837 Van Buren had 170 to 73 for Harrison; 26 for Hugh L. White; 14 for Daniel yan Buren had 170 to 73 for Harrison; 26 for Hugh L. White: 14 for Daniel Webster; and 11 for Mangum. In 1841 Harrison had 234 electors to 60 for Van Buren, or very nearly 4 to 1. In 1845 Polk had 170 to 105 for Henry Clay. In 1849 General Taylor had 163 to 127 for General Cass. In 1853 General Pierce had 296 electors to 42 for General Scott, or a little more than 7 to 17 or a little more than 7 to 1. This also was a larger proportional majority than Grant's. In 1857 Buchanan defeated Fremont by 173 to 114. In 1861 the vote in the electoral college was: Lincoln, 180; Breckinvidge, 72; Bell, 39; Douglas (Missouri and 3 votes in New Jersey), 12. In 1865 Lincoln was relected by 212 to 21 electors, his opponent being Gen. George B. McClellan. The proportion was over 10 to 1. But still McClellan had nearly within 400,000 as many votes as Lincoln. In 1868 General Grant had 214 votes in the electoral college to 80 for Seymour, and a or a little more than 7 to 1. This also toral college to 80 for Seymonr, and a popular majority of 320,000. His popular majority this year, from present indications, will not be less than 700,000, and possibly 800,000. No other President ever received so large a popular majority.

Goodness of heart is man's best treasure, his brightest honor, and noblest acquisition. It is that ray of the Divinity which dignifies humanity. A little girl was asked the following question: "What is faith?" She replied: "Doing God's will and asking no questions."
